Greetings St. Anselm families,

This is it! Our last scope! We have two short weeks coming up. So, we don't need a full newsletter at the end of the year.

I know this time of the year is really busy. I suggest that you and your student take a look grades right now. The students have two more weeks to get everything together and turn in any missing work. Instead of waiting until the last day of school, the work needs to be completed now. Grades and websites have been updated online. Take a look when you have a moment.

I know that you are reminded of this frequently-- please check your fair hours and the fair schedule. The fair happens the same time every year. I know it's a ton of work and it's a big commitment. However, we need "all hands on deck" to run this event. This is our biggest fundraiser and very important to St. Anselm. I appreciate your flexibility and willingness to help in a large way.

The teachers are currently working on reading and math packets. When those are up on the website, I will let you know. I know there is often a debate about math and reading work in the summer. It's a similar debate to whether homework is needed in the evening. I firmly believe that a balance is needed with everything. The core classes need daily practice. When it comes to the summer, it is most beneficial when the students work on their packets each week, for a little bit of time. It is best to start with math and work gradually. Then, move onto reading so that the book(s) and topic(s) will stay fresh in your student's mind. Review both before school starts in August. Hard copies of the lists will be distributed, but as mentioned above, they will also be available online.

This is a weekly reminder--- PLEASE bring in scholarship forms, moms and dads club forms, and free and reduced lunch forms within the next two weeks. We want to help families who truly need the help, but we can't do that without the proper paperwork. I appreciate your anticipated timeliness with these documents. In addition, we need your registration forms and cards if you still have them at home. In order to send packets home over the summer, we have to have those. Again, thank you for your help!

Lastly, All Saints Soup Kitchen is incredibly grateful for the work our students have done serving the less fortunate. We are going one more time. The remaining sixth graders were originally supposed to go to All Saints on June 1, however, we have had to change the date. The students will now go on June 6 (Tuesday). I will remind the students about this trip. Those students will travel to All Saints with me.

Have a great weekend! Enjoy your four days!
