PRINCIPALS CORNER

Greetings St. Anselm Families,

Happy February! And, Happy Catholic Schools week! It's been fun and exciting around school! Lots of activities, a fun pep rally, and tons of dress up days.

Here are some reminders and updates from my desk:

On Friday, our school will celebrate mass at 8:30 and then our middle school students will be off to the Aquinas Olympics. If your student is participating at the Olympics, they are to wear their uniform on Friday. All other students can dress in Sunday best.

We will be off of school on Monday, February 5. We collected lots of cans, clothing, and toiletries from our raffle, along with tons of funds for All Saints Soup Kitchen! Our school really came together this week to raise funds for the American Heart Association! Great job! Enjoy your Monday off!

I'm glad that our school will not be open on Monday because we have tons of sick students and several sick staff members. Please remember that if your student is sick, he/she should stay home. People with fevers and flu/flu-like symptoms are contagious. From watching the news this past week, doctors have stressed that if you are sick, you should stay home and rest. The work can be made up and can wait. Thank you for your cooperation with this!

Next Friday, February 9, we will induct our new students into the National Junior Honor Society. We are excited to keep this tradition of excellence going here at St. Anselm. Inductions begin after mass (around 9:00). All are welcome to join and witness our students be inducted. Our current members read and our new students are pinned. God Bless all of our St. Anselm students for their hard work!

Tuesday, February 13 is Fat Tuesday. Our students can order paczki by turning in forms to the office. Wednesday, February 14 is Valentine's Day, but is also Ash Wednesday. We will observe the start of Lent by heading to mass at 8:30, receiving ashes, and doing stations of the cross as well. Stations of the cross will continue through Lent, on Fridays (except for 2/16). All families are welcome to join us for this blessed tradition.

Just as a reminder, we will be off of school from Monday, February 19-Friday, February 23. We will resume with classes on Monday, February 26. Some of our students have told me about some great, upcoming vacations. If you are traveling, ENJOY!

At this point, we are about seven weeks away from our next report card. However, progress reports will come out in two weeks. We have many students on the cusp of better grades. With a bit more effort, Cs can be Bs and Bs can be As. While I walk around at the end of the day, I hear the teachers reviewing what should be written down in the planner. Students in grades 1-8 now have Google emails to check teacher google sites. Please read the instructions I sent home on how to login and view homework assignments. Signing planners may help with organization. I know that our students can reach their goals if they work hard, use their planners, complete their assignments and turn them in!

With that, I wish you a wonderful weekend!
